Ramelle Pigue Nominated For State's Mother Of Year

Fifteen years ago, in a SIL-HOUETTE feature of this newspaper the article started out by saying "It takes a heap of living to make a home... any little Pigue will tell you that."

The living and the loving that went into the home of Ramelle and Bertie Pigue has brought a distinct honor to the family. Ramelle was this week named as one of the 22 Kentucky women who have been nominated for Kentucky's Mother of the Year. The honor could not have come to a more deserving person, nor to one who truly exemplifies all the tenets that motherhood stands for.

Mrs. Pigue was notified of her selection by Mrs. Kyle Taylor, Kentucky State Chairman of the American Mothers Committee. As one of the nominees Mrs. Pigue will be honored at a luncheon on April 11 in Paducah when the Woman's Club of Paducah will be the hostess. The meeting at the Irvin Cobb Hotel will hear Kentucky's Governor Edward T. Breathitt salute the nominees as well as all mothers of Kentucky.

What does it take to be honored as one of only 22 women in all of Kentucky to receive such a high distinction? It takes a lot of work. It takes a lot of courage. It takes the kind of life that Ramelle has led, not alone in de-

I know that a lot of you who read this column do so to "escape" the usual somber editorial comments found elsewhere in this and other newspapers. But there are days when writing something of light and gay is just impossible to do. Take Tuesday, for instance. I simply hated to see the sun come up. I had watched the late news broadcast on Monday night. The reports were so bad I wondered if it was safe to go to bed or worthwhile to get up this next morning.

I did muster the courage to get out of bed Tuesday, but when I read the morning papers it was just as well if I had never gotten up. The reports of the night before were all true... they even looked worse in print.

After reading the front page of a metropolitan newspaper Tuesday, except for the fact that Frank Albert Stubblefield was announcing for his fourth term, EVERY STORY on the page had a connotation of strife, tragedy, violence and political waste. Even the Supreme Court contributed to my dilemma by ruling that Fidel Castro had every legal right to seize the property of Americans in Cuba.

The efforts of the good Lord to bring on floods and suffering to remind us of our turbulent lives seem to no avail.

Here were the stories on the front page of the newspaper in mention:

A Negro woman was killed, a white man was shot in the head and another white man was slashed with razor blades during a day of racial demonstrations drew to a bloody climax.

A Negro and a white sailor were wounded and at least 10 gasoline bombs exploded in hotels and bars in the Negro section of the city Monday night.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers listed the recent flood damage at $168 million. The Red Cross said 23,977 homes in five states were destroyed or damaged. The death toll stood at 19, with 1,235 injured or ill and 93 still hospitalized, according to Red Cross reports.

A total of 24,179 families were driven from their homes and hundreds of persons remained in shelters.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt has vetoed 17 bills and one resolution, including a measure which would have allowed teachers an extra $50 a year with pay.

While a tornado hit in Marshall County on that rainy Wednesday, March 4, Paducah was reeling as the people tried to relieve the water situation inside the city and more talk was started about the need for massive sewer improvements.

U. S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was stabbed in the right thigh by a 19-year-old Japanese youth Tuesday as he was about to leave the embassy chancery for lunch.

A South Viet Nam delegation went home empty handed Monday but still hopeful of making peace with Cambodia in spite of an explosive frontier incident that torpedoed negotiations.

Judge Wood Tipton dismissed a taxpayers' suit in Graves County as "vague, indefinite and uncertain." We do not condemn the (Continued on page two)

Fossett Urges Twin City Lovelies To Enter Booster's Beauty Revue

Bill Fossett, chairman of the Beauty Pageant for this year's Banana Festival has some good advice for prospective beauty queens. "Get all the experience you can by entering local and area beauty revues," Fossett said in commenting on the qualifications for entrants in this year's Festival Beauty Show.

"This year," he added, "entrants will be sought from all 50 States and from some Latin American countries. Of course girls from the twin city area will be entitled to enter the contest as long as they meet the qualifications. The young lady with experience in other shows, who has overcome the fear of the judges, and who is accustomed to the lights and glamour of a beauty show will certainly have an advantage over those young ladies who have not participated in a beauty show previously," Fossett said.

Fossett called attention to the beauty show to be staged by the South Fulton Booster Club on April 10. "Here's an opportunity for young ladies in the twin city area to win a coveted title as well as to get some valuable experience," Fossett said. The title of Miss South Fulton is bestowed on the winner of the annual event sponsored by the South Fulton civic organization. W. W. Jetton is president of the South Fulton Booster Club. Entry blanks to enter the revue may be secured from Jetton or any member of the Booster Club.

Banana Princess To Talk Before National Group

If anybody has any doubts that the activities of the Banana Festival are not getting national publicity for the twin cities, let's consider the latest appearance of Banana Festival Carol Gilson.

Princess Carol has been invited to speak before the National Association of Produce Market Managers on April 14, in Louisville. The official invitation came from Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler when he said: "We want the prettiest, most capable young lady in Kentucky to represent us before this national group. It was the unanimous decision that we could fill the bill with flying colors in inviting your Banana Princess."

Princess Carol will go to Louisville, accompanied by her official chaperone, Mrs. Bob Morgan. They will be taken to Louisville, expenses paid, by Mills Shaw, Jr. of Hickman, an employee of the Department of Agriculture.

Site Selected For Clinton's New Postoffice

Mayor Kaylor Austin of Clinton announced today that a site for a new federal building there has been approved.

Mayor Austin said he was notified of the selection in a telegram from U. S. Sen. John Sherman Cooper.

The General Services Administration has picked a 45,000-square-foot site bounded by Moss Drive and South Washington St., owned by the Blanche Johnson estate. The building to be built there will house the post office and other federal offices. The present post office is housed in a rented building a half-block away. Other federal agencies are in other downtown buildings. No date for beginning of construction has been set.

Some Teachers Will Not Get Raise; KEA Says Action Misinterpreted

Breathitt Vetoes Bills Intended For Education

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has vetoed a bill to allow State income-tax deductions for college-education costs. It would have reduced general fund revenue "in excess of $5,000,000," Breathitt said. Introduced by Representative Richard Frymire, Madisonville Democrat, it was one of six education bills vetoed.

Others vetoed and the reasons cited included:

House Bill 372 — Creating a special teachers retirement fund for teachers ineligible under existing system; introduced by Representative Albert Dempsey, Inez Republican.

It would create a continuing expense without providing a source of revenue, said Breathitt.

S. B. 44 — Allowing school districts to count up to five "calamity" days as school days for teacher pay and other purposes; introduced by Senator Pleaz Mobley, Manchester Republican.

It "would tend to shorten the school term," Breathitt.

S. B. 327 — Empowering the State superintendent of public instruction to furnish textbooks to State-supported schools for the mentally retarded; introduced by Senator Scott Miller, Jr., Louisville Republican.

Operating budgets of public institutions already include textbook funds—Breathitt.

S. B. 193 — Requiring notice by school districts 45 days before redemption of bonds in advance of maturity; introduced by Senator Bernard Bonn, Louisville Democrat.

It would require unnecessary publication because trust indentures uniformly provide for prior notice—Breathitt.

S. B. 156 — Enabling school boards to provide liability insurance against board members' negligence; introduced by Senator Casper Gardner, Owensboro Democrat.

As amended to remove restrictions on type of insurance, it is "vague and confusing"—Breathitt.

Henry Ward Creates New Highway Post

Highway Commissioner Henry Ward has created a new office of administration and named E. Bob Bond as assistant commissioner to head it at $13,800 yearly.

Bond, a department employee since 1958, has been finance officer since 1962. He is a University of Kentucky graduate.

He will supervise activities of the budget officer, administrative-management officer, aviation section, toll-facilities officer, and divisions of services and supply, real-property management, accounts, data processing, and contract controls.

Bill Costing $3500 Dies In The House

It cost about $3,500 to print a bill that would have made house-cleaning changes in Kentucky Revised Statutes.

The measure, Senate Bill 50, weighed about 4 pounds. It passed the Senate but died in the House.

Mayfield Chamber Has New Manager

Joe Wood, Cairo, Ill., has been named executive vice-president of the Mayfield - Graves County Chamber of Commerce, succeeding Robert G. Davis, who resigned March 1 to accept a similar post at Lincoln, Ill.

Wood's appointment, effective April 1, was announced by John E. Walker, president of the chamber.

Some teachers in Kentucky will not receive a $300 salary increase next year, according to Roy McDonald, Cadiz, president of the Kentucky Education Association. The action of the General Assembly, which concluded its regular 1964 session last Friday, has been misinterpreted by many people, he says.

Explaining his statement, McDonald reports that the main point of confusion results from failure to recognize that the state guarantees only the minimum school program, and many school systems have gone beyond this minimum to provide more "quality" in their schools. The salary increases voted by the Legislature are applied only to this minimum program, and would violate the basic principles under which the Foundation Program operates if they were applied in any other way.

In calculating the costs of the Foundation Program, McDonald explains, the state allocates a certain amount of money for each approved classroom unit. (This amount has been increased by $300 for next year.) An approved classroom unit, in most instances, is found where there are 27 pupils in average daily attendance (ADA), or about 30 pupils are enrolled.

"In order to add more quality to their programs," McDonald says, "some school systems have hired extra teachers to provide for smaller classes and additional offerings. The cost of this part of the program is paid entirely out of local funds, since this is more than the minimum. There is no allocation from the state for any salary increases for these teaching positions."

McDonald cites as an example a hypothetical school system which has 2700 pupils in ADA, which would mean 100 approved classroom units. In terms of the actions of the 1964 General Assembly, this school system would be scheduled to receive an additional $30,000 in state funds for salaries next year. If they operate only the minimum program, then the board could increase each teacher's salary by $300 next year (assuming they all have a college degree and a regular teaching certificate).

"Suppose, however," says McDonald, "the people in this school system have wanted more quality in their program, and have employed an extra 10 teachers, whose salaries have been coming out of local revenues. Since these teaching positions are above and beyond the minimum number of approved classroom units, the state would not provide any additional funds for them next year. In this instance, the $30,000 increase in state funds would need to be divided among 110 teachers, with an average of about $273 per teacher. In order to have (Continued on page seven)

He has been active in the Democratic Party for the past 20 years, including association with the late Senators Alben Barkley and Virgil Chapman and former Senator Earle Clements.

Watkins described himself as a supporter of former Governor Bert Combs until last year when he was finance chairman for former Governor A. B. Chandler and Lieutenant Governor Harry Lee Waterfield in the Democratic primary for governor.

Stubblefield To Seek Re-election For Fourth Term

Frank Albert Stubblefield of Murray has filed as a candidate for his fourth term in Congress from Kentucky's First District.

So far Stubblefield is without opposition but a Central City resident, former basketball star Bobby Watkins, has picked up declaration papers in the office of the secretary of state.

Watkins has indicated that he will run.

Stubblefield defeated Congressman Noble J. Gregory of Mayfield in an upset election six years ago. He came back from a narrow victory to run unopposed in 1960.

Solo Dramatist To Appear At UTMB Monday

Philip Hanson, widely acclaimed American solo dramatic artist, will perform his popular one-man show, "Kings and Clowns" by William Shakespeare on Monday, March 30 at 8:00 P. M. in the UTMB Women's Gymnasium. The show being presented by the Weakley County Mutual Concert Association, is one hour and a half in length with one intermission.

Mr. Hanson has been touring his repertoire of solo shows across the United States and Canada since 1959. Called "a man of many parts," he carries in his memory a total of 30 complete Shakespearean roles in addition to the 145 characters he plays in his one-man shows. "Kings and Clowns," first show in the Hanson repertoire of six solo shows, will feature the actor playing more than 40 characters from famous Shakespeare plays.

Big Hootenanny With Top Talent To Be Presented By Civitan Club

South Fulton people will be the appearance for the first time in public of the "Cricketa." This group is composed entirely of local talent and will perform as a part of the program. Who are the Cricketa? Although this is a mystery, it will be solved on the night of the Hootenanny when they make their appearance on the program.

More announcements will be made later in regard to other talent that will appear on the program, but an outstanding array of performers will make their appearance that night. Master of ceremonies for the Hootenanny will be W. L. Cottrell.

Sargent Shriver, A Competent Administrator And Dedicated American, Is A Man This Nation Needs

The millions of persons who watched "Meet The Press," over NBC Sunday afternoon, surely must have been as impressed as we were with the sincerity, ability and vision of Sargent Shriver, President Johnson's selection to head the war on poverty in the United States. Already director of the immensely successful Peace Corps, it is no wonder that Mr. Shriver is being mentioned as a possible running mate for President Johnson on the Democratic ticket.

We are great fans of the "Meet the Press" program. But never have we been so completely absorbed in the program that we honestly hated to see it close; we wanted to hear more and learn more from Sunday's dynamic guest.

We have read enough about the Peace Corps around the globe to know that its success did not come about by happenstance. We similarly know that Mr. Shriver surprised even the most pessimistic critics of the program by making the Peace Corps the most vital American agency anywhere in the world. Last July TIME MAGAZINE, said "it (the Peace Corps) is possibly the greatest single success the Kennedy Administration has produced." We can easily understand the statement after listening to Mr. Shriver efficiently and confidently answer the usually tough questions tossed to guests on "Meet The Press."

There may have been those, including one of the reporters on the panel, who might have construed the President's war on poverty as an election year "gimmick." Mr. Shriver quickly dispelled any such notion when he told the reporter: "If I thought it was a program to get votes this Fall I never would have taken the job." There can be no doubt that Mr. Shriver was telling the plain, untarnished truth. In the comparatively short time that Mr. Shriver has headed the program against poverty he has put together a vast plan to reach the truly poverty-stricken American everywhere . . . in the cities, on the farms, in the slums.

And what's more, even as little time as Mr. Shriver had on the thirty-minute show, he convinced his audience that he knows what he's about and intends to give the program every ounce of energy, vitality and know-how that he has. And it appears that he has a whole lot of everything that is needed to make the program move forward, including great personal charm.

In his program to alleviate poverty in the United States, it is obvious that Mr. Shriver will try to put the plan in motion unhampered by tangles of red tape. This is a much harder task than the average person realizes. But if it can be done, Sargent Shriver is the man who will come nearest to success in this area.

A lot of Americans have looked upon Mr. Shriver simply as the brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy. He is married to the former Eunice Kennedy. Like most men who surrounded the late President, Shriver had a dedication to serve his in-law and his country. While many of the Kennedy-men are gradually leaving the White House for other endeavors, Shriver apparently has decided to continue serving his country, no matter who occupies the White House. He made this plain Sunday when he said: "I think that when the President of the United States asks any American to do a job, he ought to do it."

The country, and this world is a better place because we have Sargent Shriver. We wish there were more like him. We think that there will be. For this brilliant individual is the type of man who breeds confidence in other Americans, while he sets the pattern for unselfish devotion to the task ahead.

We're glad we put Shriver's appearance on "Meet the Press" on our "must" list for last Sunday afternoon. We hope you did too! If you didn't, you owe it to yourself to know this man Sargent Shriver better!

If You Are Parents, You Need To Read This Heart-Warming, Thought-Provoking Article

It must be fairly clear to readers of this newspaper that Landon Wills, editor and publisher of the McLean County News is one of our all-time favorite writers. The star of an ABC-TV documentary called "The Vanishing Breed," of newspaper editors, Landon may be just that, but we hope not. His forthright, courageous editorials and news stories have won him many, many journalistic awards, if not many advertising and printing accounts. But that's the kind of an editor he is.

Recently a very important event occurred in the Wills' household. The oldest boy left for the U. S. Air Force. Landon sat at his typewriter and wrote his column "Observations of a Country Boy," about the milestone passed. It is the most heart-warming, yet though-provoking article we've read in a long time. If you are a parent you will want to read Landon's column. Here it is:

U. S. Air Force last week.

Now, I don't intend to take over-seriously the fact that our first-born has left the nest. It is a perfectly natural part of the process of life . . . a part of the process of growth and continuation.

Actually, this is not the first departure from home. But when Number Two Son Clyde left for the University last year, it wasn't quite the same as Alvin leaving for a four-years hitch in the service.

When these things happen, one can not escape a few thoughts about their place in the scheme of things.

The first thought is a sudden realization of change . . . For years there have been thoughts about providing for a family with six boys . . . an extra room on the still-too-crowded house . . . enough cars to provide the necessary transportation . . . musical instruments for all, and then some . . . more groceries to feed growing boys. Without really thinking about it, I think we just assumed this would go on forever. But now there are two less to feed and house, to drive, to make noise, to worry about. Suddenly we realize that things aren't like they were, and never will be again. It is an intimate reminder that the only permanent thing is change.

When you realize that one of your sons is gone—probably never to live under your roof again, you wonder about many things. Whatever chance you had to influence his character, his personality, his habits, is gone now. So we wonder about the thing we should have taught him, but didn't and about the things we tried to teach him, but failed.

I am sorry we failed to teach him to take orders agreeably . . . to respect constituted authority. Perhaps the Air Force has ways of teaching that. I believe that whoever his superiors are, he will treat them as individuals and respect each one for his worth and ability. If there is any one thing we have taught him, it is not to judge anyone by prejudice or classification, but to value every human being for his own qualities.

I am sorry that we of this generation have created a world in which there is still the threat of war . . . That it's necessary for so many of our young men to interrupt their lives with two, three, or four years of learning the wasteful arts of how to kill other human beings. That is a telling confession of our own ignorance and failure. It is proof that we have learned little from all the world's great religions . . . it is the ultimate of man's inhumanity to man.

Yet, if the world we have given to our new generation is a world in which the possibility of war must be met, I am glad that our son went into the service of his country willingly. I am glad that he did not hunt for devious ways to avoid his duty to do what millions of others have done.

The thought of contracting for four years of military service is a serious matter for a 19-year-old youth. Yet, when considered in the proper sense of values, those four years can be useful, enjoyable ones. There is the opportunity to meet, to know, and to appreciate many other young persons from all over the 50 states. An opportunity to understand and appreciate the contributions of all the many elements of race, religious and background that are the strength of our nation. It is an opportunity to learn many things that one misses in a quite, sheltered community like McLean county.

Four years of military service need not be lost years—at least in peace time. They can be almost as useful as four years of college, if opportunities are used to the best advantage. So, we look upon our son's departure not in any sense of sacrifice, but as one of opportunity and privilege.

Someone has wisely noted that our civilization rather thoughtlessly entrusts to complete amateurs the two most important jobs in our society—parenthood and citizenship. Do any of us know how to rear children properly?

This is the "moment of truth" for us as parents. The process began years ago in faroff Tacoma, Washington. (Alvin was an Air Force baby, born to Air Force parents, paid for by Air Force funds, and spent his first 18 months on an air base.) Now, for the first of our sons, the process of parenthood is finished. No more can we accurately say that "we have six boys".

With Alvin breaking the ties of home for basic training at San Antonio, and Clyde in his second semester at the University, the quality of our parenthood is being tested. What will the verdict be?

"The Moving Finger writes; and, having writ, Moves on: nor all your Pity nor Wit

"Shall lure it back to cancel half a Line, Nor all your Tears wash out a Word of it."

100 Years Ago This Week

An historical review of the Civil War day by day in Kentucky, as reviewed by the Kentucky Civil War Commission.

By JOE JORDAN

(Kentucky Civil War Commission)

One hundred years ago this week Gov. Thomas E. Bramlette, Archibald Dixon and Albert G. Hodges traveled from Frankfort to Washington City. (A century ago, the national capital invariably was referred to as "Washington City," and not as "Washington, D. C.") They went to "interview" President Lincoln on the enrollment in Kentucky of Negro soldiers, to which even this staunch Union men of the Commonwealth had strong objections.

Of the two men Gov. Bramlette chose to accompany him, Dixon, a Henderson lawyer, was a former lieutenant governor and a former U. S. senator. A contemporary said he had dauntless courage and a fiery temperament and so bore himself that no man dared to attempt to influence him through fear. Hodges, a Frankfort newspaper publisher, had been successively a member of the Whig, Know-Nothing, American, Union, and Republican political parties and during the Old Court vs. New Court struggle his paper strongly advocated the principles of both sides.

The versatile three-man team from Kentucky came out of the interview with a compromise between the Commonwealth and the President of the United States. The governor, who since December had been threatening publicly to enforce a state law against the enlisting of Negroes, agreed to cease opposing it and Mr. Lincoln agreed to stop it and not permit the enlistment of Negroes in Kentucky as long as the Commonwealth provided enough white recruits to fill the state's quotas.

The same week saw an attack upon a Federal force at Paducah by Confederate cavalry under the command of Maj. Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest. The Union commander, Col. S. G. Hicks, had battalions of the 122nd Illinois Infantry, the 18th Kentucky Cavalry and the 1st Kentucky Heavy Artillery—835 men in all, of whom 220 were Negroes. He retired into Fort Anderson and refused a demand that he surrender.

On the first day, beginning about 2 p. m., the Confederates made several desperate charges upon the fort, but were repulsed. Two Federal gunboats, Peosta and Paw-Paw, from advantageous positions in the Ohio River hurled shells at the Rebels and powerfully assisted the defenders of the fort.

Confederate sharpshooters, taking shelter in and behind buildings, continued firing at the fort and the gunboats. Early the next morning, Col. Hicks had his men set fire to some 25 buildings, destroying the main armory and Forrest eventually withdrew after burning Union headquarters, quartermaster and commissary buildings, the railroad depot and the steamer Decatur. Many other buildings had been burned or damaged by Federal artillery. The Federal loss was 14 killed, 48 wounded, 40 taken prisoner; the Confederate loss was not reported. Several civilians had been killed or wounded accidentally by stray bullets and shells.

No Make-Up For School Needed For November 25

A bill introduced by Graves Representative Lon Carter Barton at the start of this session, which provides that schools of the state will not have to make up the one day missed last November 25th for the day of mourning for President John Kennedy, has passed unanimously.

House Bill 45 has an emergency clause that states the schools will only have to hold classes 184 days this year instead of the regular 185 days. Representative Barton said the bill passed the House and Senate by unanimous vote and was signed by Governor Ned Breathitt last week.

Last November 25 following the death of the President, the governor and school officials of the state urged schools to close on the day of the funeral for mourning. Later it was decided the day must be made up later in the year if needed, to bring the attendance days to 185.

Representative Barton introduced the House Bill 45 with its emergency clause for this year to eliminate making up the day missed.

Boy Scouts To Help Program Of Bicycle Safety

Local Boy Scout troops are co-operating in a national Scout program to promote an increased awareness of safety practices among riders of bicycles.

Elbert Johns, Scout Executive, said today that Scouts in Four Rivers Council will receive a new booklet on bike safety and maintenance provided by The Good-year Tire & Rubber Company.

The safety record for the nation's 23 million bicyclists is comparatively good. Still, about 400 Americans are killed on bikes each year and another 25,000 suffer disabling injuries. Four out of five of those killed or injured are between the ages of five and 15.

The booklet emphasizes that the two main keys to safe bicycling are knowing and obeying the traffic laws and maintaining proper care of bikes.

"Stars In My Crown" Author Named Dean Of School Of Arts At SMU

Kermit Hunter, professor of drama and chairman of the Division of Fine Arts at Hollins College, will leave this college this summer to become dean of the new $8 million School of the Arts at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas.

The announcement was made today jointly by Dr. John A. Logan Jr., president of Hollins, and Dr. Willis Tate, president of Southern Methodist University. Dr. Hunter is to begin his new duties in September.

Dr. Hunter is the author of "Stars In My Crown," presented last year at Kenlake Amphitheater, "Unto These Hills," at Cherokee, N. C., "Horn in the West," at Boone, N. C., and "Howey in the Rock," at Beckley, W. Va.

He has written 25 outdoor dramas that have been seen by more than four million people and has had more plays produced than any other American playwright. In addition, he has written numerous articles and speeches and is the author of the university theater section of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Dr. Hunter holds a B. A. Degree from Ohio State University and an M. A. and Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina, plus an honorary doctor of letters from Emory & Henry College. He also has attended the University of California and the Juilliard School of Music in New York. The new fine arts center at Southern Methodist University (SMU) is about half completed.

The wings for the Division of Music and the Division of Fine Arts will be opened in September, and will be followed soon by the theater wing. It will be known as the Bob Hope Theater in honor of a $300,000 gift from the comedian. A recent gift of $400,000 from Wilbur Sharp of Dallas is being used for equipping the theater.

The total arts complex, costing slightly more than $8 million, will contain an art museum and art studios, a music wing and concert hall, and a hundred practice rooms and lab rooms, a drama wing with both a public and an experimental theater, plus television and radio labs. The entire complex will have a common lobby.

Dr. Hunter will serve as dean of the school, which is one of the several schools of the university. At present, there are about 90 faculty members engaged in the School of the Arts. About 600 students currently take courses in the school, which offers both M. A. and Ph.D. degrees.

returned by the Grand Jury in the City of Fulton can be dismissed simply on a motion by any attorney, and that any defendant who desired would have to be tried by the Circuit Court at Hickman and not at Fulton. But the sessions were continued here.

In a surprise move on February 4, 1964 David M. Reed of Paducah, attorney for J. D. Boulton, charged with "shooting with intent to kill," introduced a motion declaring that the indictment against Boulton was illegal and asked the court to dismiss the charge.

Circuit Judge Wood Tipton sustained the motion and dismissed the charge, but ordered the September Grand Jury to look into the matter further.

This was the first such ruling that has been made in Circuit Court when being held in Fulton. Circuit Court started meeting in Fulton by an act of the legislature that was passed in 1900 and has met here ever since, despite the fact that the State Legislature in 1940 declared the act unconstitutional. The Circuit Court opens in Hickman, moves to Fulton for the second week, and back to Hickman for the third and final week.

After Judge Tipton's ruling, City of Fulton officials and other interested persons started working to get a bill passed in the legislature making the court sessions in Fulton constitutional.

House Bill No. 504 was written by City Attorney James Warren.

RAMELLE PIGUE—

votion and dedication to her family, but to her church, her community and to the schools that her children and other children attended.

And how did Ramelle Pigue fulfill these responsibilities? Right well, we'd say. The record speaks for itself. The Pignes have five children . . . all of them successes from the standpoint of good citizenship, remunerative endeavors and from the fact that they are making their own distinctive way in the worlds in which they live.

Charles Pigue of Wheaton, Illinois is production sales manager of Delta Star Electric Company, a division of the H. K. Porter Company of Pittsburgh; Eugene Pigue lives in Lexington and is construction supervisor for Sadler Construction Company; Carmen Pigue Depp, who walked away with almost every major honor at the University of Kentucky, is the wife of Larry Depp, a partner in Johnson, Depp and Quisenberry Consultant Engineers in Owensboro; Joe D. Pigue is salesman for Burroughs Corporation of Detroit and lives in Hopkinsville; Jere L. Pigue is director of personnel and public relations for the Mid-Georgia Natural Gas Company of Conyers, Georgia.

All five of the Pigue children have received four years of college.

You would think that this is job enough for a busy mother. But for Ramelle Pigue it was part of a dedicated life to combine home and community affairs. You must know that she takes a great interest in all of her husband's activities and they are many. Bertie is vice president of the City National Bank and that is a very important job. But Mr. Pigue has other important assignments. He is vice president of the Four Rivers Council of Boy Scouts and received the Silver Beaver Award in 1944. He is treasurer of the Young Men's Business Club, he has served as treasurer of the Fulton Independent School District for 21 years, is secretary of the Fulton Chapter of the American Red Cross, and for thirty years has served on the official board of the First Methodist Church and has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

Watching her children grow into outstanding citizens and keeping up with the activities of a husband appears to be something of a Herculean task, but Ramelle Pigue has her own interests. At present she is serving as president of the B&PW Club. She has served as chairman of the heart fund drive for the past four years and was memorial heart fund chairman for Fulton County the past four years. She is a member of the Woman's Club, having served three times as chairman of the Drama and Literature Department and three years as treasurer of the Music Department. She served one year as president of the West Fulton PTA. Ramelle served three years as president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church. She sings in the senior choir of the church and has served as Sunday School Class officer. She has also served as superintendent of the Young People's Department of the church.

With all of this, would you believe that Ramelle Pigue has a full time job? She is assistant to the manager of the Doty Shop. She has been a saleslady in this store for 19 1-2 years.

CARD OF THANKS

Please accept my sincere and heartfelt thanks for all the cards, letters, flowers and gifts that were sent to me during my stay in the Fulton Hospital. Especially do I want to thank Dr. Glynn Bushart and all the staff of nurses and others who made my days happier and more comfortable. I shall always be grateful.

Entries Being Accepted Now In Kentucky's Farm Family Contest

Page 6 The Fulton News, Thursday, March 26, 1964

Entries are being accepted for the second-annual Kentucky Farm Family Contest, Chairman June Davis has announced.

Deadline is April 15 for the statewide contest which offers the winning family a top prize of a five-day, all-expense paid holiday at the Kentucky State park of its choice. An engraved plaque also will be presented to the winning family, Davis said.

The runner-up family will receive an expense-paid week-end at the State park of its choice. Every family entering the county contests will get a certificate of recognition, Davis added. The contest is sponsored by the Kentucky Farm Safety Committee. The prizes are made possible by the cooperation of the Kentucky State departments of Information and Parks.

Last year's state winner was the Andrew A. Fritsch family of Bourbon County. Purpose of the competition, Davis said, is to promote farm and home safety by creating a keen awareness among families and family members of useful and practical safety habits.

Davis, who also headed the contest sub-committee last year, is director of administrative services in the Kentucky Department of Agriculture.

The state winner will be selected from among the winners of the county contests. Families interested in entering their county competitions can contact their county Farm Bureau insurance agents for complete information and entry forms. In Knott, Pike, Martin, Letcher, and Knox counties, home economics teachers have been designated to supervise the contest and distribute forms.

These points will be considered in judging the safety practices of farm families:

- (1) The good safety practices the family employs around its home and farmstead; (2) the family's individual safety record; and (3) the enthusiasm and degree of participation the family displays in community safety projects.

Other members of the sub-committee headed by Davis are Miss Mary Lois Williamson and W. C. Montgomery, both of the State Department of Education, Frankfort; Mrs. Jesse Shipp, Glendale, representing Farm Bureau Women; and C. D. Bennett, Hardinsburg, Standard Oil of Kentucky.

Fulton County Agent's News

JOHN WATTS

The results of Kentucky Hybrid Corn Performance Test in 1963 has been published by the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station and is available at the County Agent's office. These tests were made at Wickliff, Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Lexington, and Quicksand. The report yields standability and disease resistance for each of 100 commercial hybrids in the test. Every farmer should study these results before buying his seed corn for 1964.

A good lawn, well kept is indispensable to attractive home surroundings.

Mid March is a good time to seed and fertilize your lawn. It is best to sow about four pounds of Kentucky Bluegrass seed to each 1,000 square feet on a honeycomb freeze.

A soil test should be made of each lawn to determine the need for lime or fertilizer usually mid-summer when the grass is dry is the best time to apply fertilizer.

March Is "Egg Month"

KENTUCKY EGG QUEEN, Mrs. Virginia Lyon of Frankfort, hangs a garland of the poultry product on Agriculture Commissioner Wendell P. Butler with Governor Edward T. Breathitt already wearing his. These "wreaths" and the centerpiece of eggs added to the theme of a special breakfast in Frankfort in observance of March as "Egg Month" in Kentucky. Leaders of Kentucky's $30 million annual poultry industry from all around the state attended the breakfast in the Capitol Annex Building cafeteria. W. D. Insko, head of the Department of Poultry in the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and Home Economics, was chief speaker. Fred Arrington, Louisville, is Egg Month chairman.

Most home owners should contact the soil Conservation Service to determine the type of soil of their lawn, as this may also influence fertilizer recommendations.

Do not be in a hurry to cut the young grass. Let the grass grow to about five inches tall, and cut with a lawn mower to 2 1-2 inches. Close mowing reduces grass stands and lets weeds and crab grass get started.

This is the time of year when many people have their shade trees topped. This practice causes the trees to grow taller, become weaker and die earlier than untopped trees. It also causes the trees to grow into abnormal and unattractive form.

Trees should be completely removed or pruned to allow lines to go through, rather than topped only for line clearance.

If tall trees are to be used in a landscape, plant them away from overhead lines and far enough from the house so that they will never have to be pruned or topped. There is nothing more forlorn than a beheaded tree.

With JIM FRYOR

Agricultural Agent, Blount County, Tenn.

Many farmers are known to say "they were the best looking oats I've ever seen, plump and bright. Good growing weather, too but they just didn't come up." It is somewhat commonplace for people to be fooled by look, or the price of seed that is to be planted. Years ago, we often heard of crops failing to come up or weeds dominating new stands of hay and pasture. Today with seed laws and approved and improved methods of planting, these problems have become remote.

State seed laboratories constantly check the purity and germination of seed samples selected by state inspectors. The seed laws apply only to seed offered for sale. Farmers who grow their own seed, may sell it to a neighbor without its being tested, providing the buyer picks it up and the seed was not advertised. Unfortunately, there is a common practice among farmers of buying seed from a neighbor without the benefit of cleaning or testing, if the seed looks good. It is impossible to tell the germination of seed by its appearance. While all information on the label is important, the most vital figures are the percentage of pure seed, the percentage of weed seed, the number of noxious weeds per ounce and last but even more important, the germination.

In most cases the large amount is examined for noxious weeds. These are weeds that are extremely difficult to eradicate. Dodder, perennial sow thistle, wild onions and horse nettle are some examples. Johnson grass is a noxious weed in some states, and must be reported if present in the examination. The experienced seed analysts must learn to recognize several hundred weed seed on sight. It is essential that the analysts identify all seed found in a sample, often by doing so, a serious weed infestation can be averted.

Germination is very important to farmers, for if the germination is poor, then the investment in land, labor, and fertilizer may be seriously affected or even lost. Any farmer can protect himself by keeping the seed tag or label from the bag, and retaining a small sample of the seed, if there be any question. Seedmen are required by law to keep records. I am very happy to say that most of them are honest.

Certified seed, on the other hand, goes far beyond the testing stage. In addition it is carefully supervised during production, processing, and marketing. You can usually feel safe if the seed is labeled "CERTIFIED".

If you produce your own seed or if a neighbor offers to sell you seed that he has grown, by all means take a sample and have it tested. The analysis report will give you valuable information needed for planting and may even protect you from costly losses. It is well worth the few dollars you invest and the time you spend doing this once or twice a year.

LOCAL MERCHANTS HAVE IT!

SOME TEACHERS—

a $300 increase for each teacher, additional local funds (if available) would have to be put into salaries.

Essentially the same situation prevails in the wealthier, so-called "guarantee" districts (such as Louisville and Lexington) where the increase in state funds next year will be $11 per pupil in average daily attendance, or $397 for each 27 pupils in ADA. If the over-all average for the system is no more than 27 pupils per teacher, the full amount of the increase will be available for salaries. However, again, if additional teachers have been employed to add "quality," the amount per teacher would be reduced.

"The sad part of this," according to McDonald, "is that the Legislature failed to approve Point Five of the KEA Legislative Program, which called for an increase in the maximum local tax rate for school purposes. Many local school systems have reached the local limit of their taxing authority, and have no way to increase the amount used to provide additional 'quality' in their school program. If Point Five had been approved, every qualified degree teacher in the state could be given this full $300 salary increase next year. That was one of the reasons KEA sponsored this legislation." The forthcoming April issue of the KEA's official publication, the Kentucky School Journal, scheduled for release on Wednesday March 25, has a detailed explanation on this problem.

The Fulton News, Thursday, March 26, 1964

DUKEDOM NEWS

By Mrs. Hillman Westbrook

Spring revival is in progress this week at Pleasant View Baptist Church. Services each night at 7:30. You are invited to attend.

Malcolm Akfred had a tonsilectomy at Hillview on Friday and, due to recurring temperature, has not been able to come home as yet.

Mrs. Almus Ridgeway was buried at Good Springs on Wednesday. She passed away in Oklahoma. The body was returned here by Jackson Brothers ambulance. Rev. O. A. Gardner conducted the funeral at the chapel.

Bob Durham's daughter, Evelyn, of Chicago is visiting with her family and plans to stay about three weeks.

Mrs. Joe Westbrook, 87 years of age, passed away at Jones Hospital in Fulton Wednesday. She had been ill all winter, but became seriously ill on Sunday. Her funeral was conducted at Jackson's Funeral Home by Bro. Harry Owens, minister of the Church of Christ in Fulton. She was buried at Knob Creek, where she had been a member for many years. Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Ina Vaughan; four step-children, Mrs. Estelle Wright of Dresden, Mrs. Chap Johnson of Austin Springs, Bunka Westbrook of Mayfield and Hillman Westbrook of Dukedom.

Barbara Starnes celebrated her 14th birthday with a slumber party at her home on March 19. Friends spending the night were Janice Houston, Wanda Essary, Ora Kay Theodoff, Martha Eddelman, Nancy Bowlin, Danna Martin, all of Dresden, Debra Watkins of Dukedom, Judy Killebrew and Trudy Freeman of Latham. A small amount of sleeping, but a great time was had by all.

Tom Nabors died suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Garrett Bailey, early Sunday morning. Funeral was conducted by Bro. Wayne Perkins at Jackson Funeral Home Sunday afternoon with burial in Mt. Moriah Cemetery. He was a member of the Primitive Baptist Church and had served his church well.

Good Springs Church has secured the services of Rev. Dan Coleman for the evangelist in the revival to be held in July.

Mrs. Eula Nelson has returned from Detroit and reports the condition of Art Grierson to be very serious.

Termites Bad, But No Case For Tax Man

Assistance offered by officers of the Internal Revenue Service during income tax filing time is intended to answer tax questions from puzzled taxpayers. Down in the Southwest, one citizen telephoned his Internal Revenue Service office to ask how he could rid his house of termites.

Pressed for an explanation as to why he thought the tax agent could provide this information, he said: "Several times I have read advice from the Commissioner to taxpayers to get their houses in order, and that is what I am trying to do."

Doctor to patient: "Let me know if this prescription works. I am having the same trouble myself."

Being a nonsmoker, the "cigarettes are out" routine is one I haven't had to worry about.

The fulfillment of God's word...

In the Old Testament Our Lord's birth, death, and also His resurrection were foretold. These events were proclaimed and written about long before Jesus came to earth. God saw that these prophecies were fulfilled—that these things were accomplished. Hosea 6:2 prophecies Christ rising from the dead. The scriptures say that Jesus is now alive, that He sits on the right hand of God and intercedes for us, and that as He rose from the grave, we, who are in Christ, will rise also. On this commemorating Easter let us all be in God's house to rejoice in this promise.

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

About People and Things

When the March flowers come up, can the piano recital be far behind? Not very! And besides that there'll be graduation exercises, the senior play and a variety of other events that will feature the pride and joy of the family. Not very long ago we read an article about such things as these concerning the reaction of the head of a household to such "pleasure." We think we've seen these motions around us, but for your enjoyment we are reprinting the literary accomplishment of an author unknown. He'd better keep unknown!

Here's the article:

Ask a man what he considers the most special forms of civilized culture and he will probably answer, "Children's recitals and graduation exercises," in that order.

The music or dance recital is a torture children have seemingly dreamed up for their fathers. With angelic expressions they confide, "You are coming to hear me play, aren't you, Daddy?"

Surely no father in the world would want to miss his own child's performance — particularly after such a special invitation. But what edelbrocked, independent, hard-working man wants to hear 39 other children labor through solo after solo or see them stumble about as daisies and frolicking fives at the yearly dance recital?

Isn't it enough that a father has listened to his own play "The March of The Wee Folk" at least 40 times at home in preparation or the big night?

Old Dad would much prefer that his child give a private recital of five short pieces with just his wife, himself, and other interested members of the family present in the recital hall.

This arrangement would mean that Father wouldn't have to arrive an hour before the recital to compete for the front row. In previous years he has found that the only good vantage point is the front row. Any farther back and he has to peer around large ladies with sizable hats, and the whispering and shushing are louder.

From all the information that can be gathered, it seems that a man is prejudiced against graduation exercises from the time of his own first graduation.

His mother, who is usually a fairly sensible person, arrives at the ceremony armed with camera and flashlight and insists upon getting a picture of her son "marching in." Next she wants a picture of him receiving his diploma. She takes it for granted that the principal will enjoy re-enacting the scene on the front steps of the school.

Then come the pictures in cap and gown with each member of the family. He's supposed to be showing them his diploma.

If all this occurs when a boy graduates from high school, it's a wonder any of them ever go to college. In another four years he has another graduation to look forward to, with more fellow-graduates and longer speeches. And he will try to get the school to mail him his diploma.

Ruth (Mrs. Hendon, Jr.) Wright is motoring to Fulton this week-end with her young son, Hendon, III. They will visit here with relatives while Lt. (jg) Wright is on maneuvers somewhere. The third Wright is called Hank, and it is possible that this young fellow will break some kind of record for being the youngest, smallest fry ever to have an Easter egg hunt planned especially for him. Hank, is about nine months old. His grandpa, Harvey Caldwell, got all disturbed the other day wondering if Mary Nelle and Doc Wright (the other grandparents) had made any plans to have an Easter egg hunt for Hank. Harvey was undaunted when he was reminded of the age of the young fellow to be so honored. Next thing we heard Elizabeth Caldwell was buying Easter egg dye to decorate those elusive eggs. Start 'em young, eh Harvey?

Lucille Burton knows now what double-trouble means. Her daughter Judy, a senior at Murray State College came home with a good case of measles. As if that wasn't enough for one household, her son Jim, also a student at Murray came home too... yes, you guessed it, with also a case of measles. Too bad all those red spots can't be used to dye Easter eggs.

Ethel McDaniel and her daughter Terry are enjoying a nice long visit with Susan (McDaniel) and Chuck Evans in Morgantown, W. Va. Chuck and Susan have moved into a new house and we rather imagine that Ethel is doing some yeoman service in helping the young folks get settled. Both Chuck and Susan are members of the staff of the university there.

Fulton was so fortunate to have had Rev. William Burrus Apperson conduct a series of revival meetings at the First Christian Church here. Rev. Apperson is a young, serious-minded and dynamic clergyman who keeps his audience spell-bound with the sincerity of his sermons. Last Thursday night he spoke on the importance of a wholesome and harmonious family life in these perilous times of moral temptation. He stressed that the foundation for piety, honesty and integrity start in the home and of course he's so right. To have such a forceful and thought-provoking message come from such a dedicated young man, a family man himself, was truly inspiring to all who heard him.

Rev. Apperson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleo Apperson of Mayfield. We share the pride they must feel in the great influence this young man is having on a generation of Americans that need more men like him. The Appersons have another son, Walt, whom we know quite well, and who also has our great respect and admiration. Walt is a staff member of the Mayfield Messenger.

Fulton's music students came away with more top honors at the annual Regional Musical Festival held at Murray State College last Saturday. We think that the fact is conclusive now that there are some very fine musicians in this area.

Local students and their ratings were:

Mrs. Steve Wiley, teacher Junior Division.
Superior—Cathy Hyland, Karen Taylor and John Reed; Senior Division.
Superior—Betty Boulton of Clinton, Laura Hefley, Lisha Ezum, Jane Edwards; Excellent—Susan Burrow.
Mrs. J. U. McKendree, teacher Superior — Peggy Sturgis and Diane Foster.

We've often thought that our young musicians do so well wherever they go is because the adults take a lot of time to cultivate the importance of music all through life.

The Junior Music Club and the Beethoven Music Club are wonderful organizations for our young people to get together and share their musical talents. Last week the Beethoven Club met and enjoyed selections by its members. We have had the pleasure of hearing many of these young musicians perform and we are sure the program they presented last week was a very fine one.

Here it is:

Doris Bolin — Tango — Nevin; Kathy and Debby Wheeler — German Dance — Beethoven; Marcia Tolson — Themes — Mozart;

Susan Bard — Pagoda — Gregory Fox;

Gail Bushart — Solfeggietto — Bach;

Karen Treas — Whirley Bird; Vicki Vowell — Surprises — Elizabeth Rogers.

Marcia Tolson was accepted as a new member. Vicki Vowell had charge of last week's program.

Mrs. Emma Butts and Mrs. Edna Jones served as hostesses at the joint "pot-luck" dinner meeting of the Marshall Alexander Post No. 73 and the Auxiliary, which was held in the Post home on March 23.

After the dinner each organization held its separate meetings. In the absence of the president of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Anna Belle Edwards, the meeting was presided over by Mrs. Paul Hornbeak, vice president. The spring conference of First District, Legion Auxiliary, will be held in Fulton on April 12 and committees were appointed and plans made for this meeting. Mrs. Robert Holland presented the program on "Community Service".

By their abilities ye shall know their residence! That just about sums up the many honors that come to graduates of our twin city schools. Ophelia Speight and Martha Delmyer did our communities proud at the recent "Stars In The Night" ceremony at the University of Kentucky. Ophelia was tapped, with 17 others for Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society. Ophelia has received so many honors at UK that it is going to take a full time researcher to accumulate her accomplishments when the need arises to chronicle them. Ophelia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Speight.

Martha, the daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Gilbert Delmyer was accepted into Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary society. She was also made a member of Cwens, another honorary society at the university. We're mighty proud of these new honors that have come to our high school graduates, just as we beam with pride everytime anybody else from home gets in the spotlight of accomplishment.

The Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in the First District will hold a Seminar on Home Improvement at Murray State College, March 26, 1964.

Mrs. Bill Peak, the First District Governor of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, has written your Home Demonstration Agent to invite all of you. The program sounds most interesting. Every homemaker's ambition at this time of the year is to get all available help on home improvement.

Judge's decision. The sad thing of this incident is that certain public officials in Graves County were allegedly violating their duties.

Then there were such stories as the Bobby Baker fiasco, a public official who used his office to make a fortune for himself... 200 college students were arrested for disorderly conduct in Florida... said a commentator Monday night... "you can't tell how many students are in Florida, but by the beer being sold the number can be estimated at nearly 30,000"... restaurant workers are having to sue their employers for back pay... there appeared to be no evidence of a "fix" in the Clay-Listen fight... the article about a magazine and libel that dealt with dispensing of pep pills to athletes... the Black Muslims and the Ku Klux Klan are joining up for reasons known only to themselves... an arm resident was found in Chicago with three wives.

Where are we going? What can we do? How can we bring up children in a wholesome atmosphere? How can we even expect to survive in getting to be a more important question than we can realize!
